The main reception foyer was almost empty but Ford nevertheless weaved his way through it. Zaphod grasped him firmly by the arm and manoeuvred him into a cubicle standing to one side of the entrance hall. "What are you doing to him?" asked Arthur. "Sobering him up," said Zaphod and pushed a coin into a slot. Lights flashed, gases swirled. "Hi," said Ford stepping out a moment later, "where are we going?" "Down to the car park, come on." "What about the personnel Time Teleports?" said Ford, "Get us straight back to the Heart of Gold." "Yeah, but I've cooled on that ship. Zarniwoop can have it. I don't want to play his games. Let's see what we can find." A Sirius Cybernetics Corporation Happy Vertical People Transporter took them down deep into the substrata beneath the Restaurant. They were glad to see it had been vandalized and didn't try to make them happy as well as take them down. At the bottom of the shaft the lift doors opened and a blast of cold stale air hit them. The first thing they saw on leaving the lift was a long concrete wall with over fifty doors in it of fering lavatory facilities for all of fifty major lifeforms. Nevertheless, like every car park in the Galaxy throughout the entire history of car parks, this car park smelt predominantly of impatience.
