and heres some blurb!

Just over two months since their debut release, Supatronix Records are proud to bring Ash Hunt into the fold, with this bass driven electro-breaks monster that promises to span genres but keep the breaks vibe well and truly alive ... and with breakbeats in!

Ash, a DJ and producer from the UK midlands, has been causing a stir at nights around the country with his unsigned material; now following his first successful outing on Waveshape Records last year, his new number Bleeperz is sure to get people talking, and more importantly dancing.

Remixing this one are founders of the highly acclaimed 192k label, Lunar Shift, who provide a remix that blends electro breaks and tear out; reminiscent of the old-skool nu-skool sound.

Rounding things off and following on from the massive success of How To Pick up Chicks (number two in the DJDownload breaks 'n' beats chart); Supatronix godfather Jurassik gives Bleeperz a full makeover; complete with the his unique brand of real breakbeats, sleazy samples, and slick production, already a winner on the floors of the six-year-old, supercool Supatronix club night in east London.

plays and support from the likes of:

Jay cunning (Kiss 100), Pete Jordan (as reviewed in May's IDJ magazine), Groove Diggerz High-8, Ben & Lex, kickflip, Peo de Pitte, Flore, Ben & Lex and 601 to name few
