We Fear Silence present another heavyweight Stanton Sessions on Saturday 4th August at Cable. This will see the Stanton Warriors joined by a stellar selection of spinners on an old and new school garage tip.

First up is garage stalwart and Rinse FM legend Brackles, who's slick, future garage sound has firmly found its rightful place in amongst the electronic music communities. His reputation as a deadly remix artist is clear, having completed work for Data Records, Polydor and No Hats No Hoods, and contributing remixes to the huge 2009 releases of MSTRKRFT's 'Heartbreaker' and Kid Cudi's 'Day and Night'.

Next up and certainly fitting to the night is Hostage, a production powerhouse, who uses his encyclopedic musical knowledge to create cutting edge genre-blurring cuts for the mind and feet. The occasion wouldn't feel right without a look into the past, so garage dons MJ Cole and Wookie have been drafted in as special guests. Famous for countless singles and remixes that continue to regularly feature in playlists around the globe, their modern day DJ sets have a bold yet vintage feel.

Completing the bill, are the Stanton Warriors, who take centre stage at another badass Stanton Sessions rave.

£11 Early Bird, £13 Advance, £15 OTD, £28 VIP Attic
